“And Can It Be That I Should Gain” is perhaps one of the most popular and joyfully poignant hymns written by Charles Wesley (1707-1788). According to The Oxford Edition of the Works of Charles Wesley, he wrote the hymn immediately after his conversion in May 1738 when he found rest knowing that it is by faith we are saved after reading Ephesians 2:8.

The text of the hymn is fairly straightforward. Wesley begins the first stanza by expressing amazement over the love expressed in God the Son dying for him; it is a mystery that we who caused his death now benefit from it. In the second stanza, he recounts the infinite grace and mercy of Christ’s love and humility in His incarnation, death, and rescue of lost sinners. Now in the third stanza, Wesley turns his attention to the bondage of his own sin and the freedom he found in Christ. Finally, he explores the results of Christ’s amazing and merciful work: there is no condemnation for those made alive in Christ and clothed in his righteousness; rather, there is bold access to the throne as we have the right to claim the eschatological crown.

“And Can It Be” has been and remains one of the most remarkable hymns, expressing like no other the rapturous joy of receiving salvation. As we enter worship today, let us marvel at the beauty of the Gospel and praise the One who showed us His love by dying for us!

Almighty and merciful Father, we are thankful that Your mercy is higher than the heavens, wider than our wanderings, and deeper than all our sin. Forgive our careless attitudes toward Your purposes, our refusal to trust Your goodness and sovereignty, our neglect of Your wise and gracious law, our indifference to the cries of the needy, our envy of those who have more than we have, and our obsession with living for our own names and kingdom. Transform us by Your Spirit so that we may desire what is good, love what You love, and do what You command, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

OFFERTORY ANTHEM: “And Can It Be?”
Dan Forrest
Words: Charles Wesley | Music: Dan Forrest | Romans 5:8

And can it be? And can it be? Amazing love, how can it be?
And can it be that I should gain an interest in the Savior’s blood?
Died He for me who caused His pain? For me, who Him to death pursued?
Amazing love! How can it be that Thou, my God, shouldst die for me?
He left His Father’s throne above, so free, so infinite His grace;
Emptied Himself of all but love, and bled for Adam’s helpless race;
’Tis mercy all, immense and free; for, O my God, it found out me.
And can it be? Amazing love, how can it be?
No condemnation now I dread; Jesus, and all in Him, is mine!
Alive in Him, my living Head, and clothed in righteousness divine,
Bold I approach th’eternal throne, and claim the crown through Christ my own.
Amazing love, how can it be that Thou, my God, shouldst die for me?
Amazing love!
